Stalking Defined

Stalking is a course of conduct and/or actions directed at a specific person that would cause a reasonable person to feel fear or emotional distress. The conduct must include two or more acts committed directly by the stalker, or through a third party by any action, method, or means; such as following, monitoring, observation, surveillances, and making a credible threat with the intent to place that person in reasonable fear of their safety or the safety of their family.

Types of Stalking

- Following a person.
- Leaving notes, phone messages, texts, and emails.
- Sending gifts.
- Contacting a person's friends and family.
- Cyberstalking - Tracking a person's on-line activity.

Stalking is a Crime

Types of Stalkers

- Rejected stalkers - pursue their victims in order to reverse, correct, or avenge a rejection (e.g. divorce, separation, termination).
- Resentful stalkers - pursue a vendetta because of a sense of grievance against the victims – motivated mainly by the desire to frighten and distress the victim.
- Intimacy seekers - seek to establish an intimate, loving relationship with their victim. Such stalkers often believe that the victim is a long-sought-after soul mate, and that they were 'meant' to be together.
- Incompetent suitors - despite poor social or courting skills, have a fixation, or in some cases, a sense of entitlement to an intimate relationship with those who have attracted their amorous interest. Their victims are most often already in a dating relationship with someone else.
- Predatory stalkers - spy on the victim in order to prepare and plan an attack – often sexual – on the victim.
