Professional Speakers Series Debuts

► The CIU program will feature Dr. Jesús “Chuy” Negrete on Thursday.

The Hispanic Heritage Celebration gets off to a rousing start on Thursday, when Dr. Jesús “Chuy” Negrete visits campus to kick off the Professional Speakers Series. The series is being funded by a Center for Intercultural Understanding grant.

He will speak in an open forum on Thursday, from 2-4 p.m. in H-131.

Negrete is one of the nation's foremost interpreters of Mexican and Mexican-American folk music, and has been hailed by author Studs Terkel as “The Chicano Woody Guthrie.”

He founded and leads the Mexican Cultural Institute in Chicago, dedicated to the study of Mexican-American musicology, Chicano folklore and culture, educational anthropology and the problems of Mexican-American communities.

Negrete has performed at lectures nationally and internationally for more than a quarter-century. His primary venues include universities such as Harvard, MIT, Brown, Stanford, the University of Chicago and the University of Houston.

Other venues include unions such as the Farm Labor Organizing Committee and advocacy organizations like the National Council of La Raza.

Negrete has received numerous awards and honors. These include a 1998 Bannerman Fellowship, a Smithsonian Institution Fellowship, a National Endowment for the Arts Grant, the Stanford Humanities Award, the Rockefeller Foundation's Artists Awards, and an honorary Ph.D. from the ethnic studies department of the University of California at Berkeley.

Negrete was one of two performers chosen to represent the United States at the International Festival of Youth in Cuba, where his performance was seen by an estimated television audience of 40 million people worldwide.

In addition to Negrete, the CIU's Professional Speakers Series will welcome

Yolanda Nava to campus on October 3.

Nava is the author of It's All in the Frijoles and is the former host of KCET TV's live nightly news program, Life & Times Tonight.

Her presentation will also be in H-131, from 2-4 p.m.

The two speakers are brought to us through a CIU grant. For more information please contact George Beloz at ext. 47264 or gbeloz@CypressCollege.edu.

Alumni Can Now Click to Reconnect with Cypress College

Cypress College has educated a lot of students since the campus opened in 1966. By our best estimate the count is nearly a half-million people.

However, the college has never made a concerted, campus-wide effort to keep in contact with our former students. The Foundation is about to change all that.

The first step is complete. Alumni can now visit the college Web site and “click to reconnect” with Cypress College. While the Foundation builds a contact database, alumni will receive periodic — and more importantly — pertinent updates. Please share this news with any alumni you keep in contact with.

He has been profiled in film and video productions including “America, I Remember You” by Los Angeles filmmaker Daniel Jacob and “Chuy Negrete: The Repertoire of a Folksinger” by Richard Olivares of KTEX, El Paso, Texas.

Negrete founded and leads the Mexican Cultural Institute, dedicated to the study of Mexican-American musicology, Chicano folklore and culture, educational anthropology and the problems of Mexican-American communities.

Negrete was a Tinker Scholar at the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana, where he completed coursework toward a Ph.D. in educational anthropology. He earned a master’s degree from Chicago State University and his undergraduate degree from the University of Illinois in Chicago, both in bilingual education. He has taught at levels ranging from preschool to adult remedial education to graduate school.

The son of migrant farm workers who later settled in South Chicago steel milieu, Negrete was born in Mexico and reared in Texas and Chicago. He lives in Chicago with wife, Rita, and two sons, Joaquin and Lucas.

YOLANDA NAVA – BIO

Yolanda Nava, author of It's All in the Frijoles and the former host of KCET/TV's live nightly news program "Life & Times Tonight", is an Emmy Award – winning television journalist, newspaper columnist, and consultant and community leader. It's All in the Frijoles was the recipient of the 2001 Best Self-help Book Award by the Latino Literary Hall of Fame at Book Expo America in Chicago. In 2002, the author was selected as one of five key Latino leaders in California to be featured in a Cal Teach Hispanic Month campaign to encourage people to enter the teaching profession.

During the course of her career Nava has appeared in Los Angeles, and Sacramento as capital correspondent, news reporter, anchor, and host for CBS and NBC network affiliates. She was also a host of the nationally syndicated television news magazine "Latin Tempo" which aired on NBC stations across the country.

Nava has been a pioneer on a number of fronts. She was a founder of the Los Angeles chapter of Comisión Femenil Mexicana Nacional, and the founder of Centro de Niños, a multi-cultural child development center for working-poor families. She served on the groundbreaking Women's Traffic Officer project of the California Highway Patrol that opened the doors for women to serve as officers for this important law enforcement agency.

The first Mexican American woman to host a television show on a network affiliate in Los Angeles, Nava was also the first woman to host a nationally syndicated television program. She was owner/founder of KCMY/TV, Channel 29 in Sacramento, the first television station in the country to be owned and operated by Mexican American women.

In 1995 while serving as Director of Development & Special Projects for the highly acclaimed Eastside Family Literacy and Child Development Center, she began writing a weekly column for Eastern Group Publications. Her seminal column about her mother's deathbed wisdom inspired her book It's All in the Frijoles 100 Famous Latinos Share Real-Life Stories, Time-Tested Dichos, Favorite Folktales, and Inspiring Words of Wisdom (Fireside/Simon & Schuster, ISBN # 0-684-84900-3).

Nava has served on numerous boards including the Metropolitan Water District, representing the City of Los Angeles, the Los Angeles Music Center Theater Group, Plaza de la Raza Cultural Center, Bella Lewitsky Dance Company, Los Angeles Chamber Orchestra, Los Angeles Area Boy Scout Council, and the YWCA. She currently serves on the Board of Advisors for The Mary Baker Eddy Library for the Betterment of Humanity in Boston and Reading is Fundamental, based in Washington D.C.

The author has two delightful and creative adult children—Joaquín, a graduate of Stanford University and NYU's Master of Arts program in Theater & Drama, and Danielle, a junior in the Music Industry Program at USC. An avid gardener and hiker, the author currently resides in Boston where she has discovered a new passion—Flamenco dancing.

CHARGERS

Freshman wrestler Steve Avelar has been chosen at The Orange County Register's Community College Male Athlete of the Week.

His photo and a short bio on his accomplishments appeared on page 2 of the sports section of last Wednesday's edition.

Avelar, who competes at 141 pounds, went 4-0 with two pins in competition the week prior to his selection.

He is a graduate of Lakewood High.

Windows XP Being Installed to Support Banner 5

Academic Computing staff is in the process of updating administrative, staff, and faculty computers to Windows XP during the month of September. Because of the large number of updates being done, they are attempting to accomplish all required updates in one visit to each PC.

The upgrades are being completed to support the transition to Banner 5, which will be online October 7. The old Banner shortcut will not work after that date. Banner 5 will introduce the ability to access the database via the Web.

- The updates will include the following software:
- Windows XP (Replaces Windows 98)
- Office XP (Word, Excel, PowerPoint, Access) (Replaces Office 2000)
- Publisher 2002 (Replaces Publisher 2000)
- McAfee Antivirus 4.5.1 (Replaces McAfee Antivirus 5.1.3)
- Adobe Acrobat Reader 5 (Replaces Acrobat Reader 4)
- Updates for support of Banner 5
- Groupwise Mail Client (New e-mail system)

To help expedite the upgrade process, Academic Computing is requesting that users save all data files into the "My Documents" folder on your computer.

IMPORTANT STEP****

To help expedite the upgrade process, we are requesting that you save all of your data files into the "My Documents" folder on your computer. The most common locations of data files is:

Office Documents - C:\My Documents (This data can stay in this folder)
WordPerfect 6.1 - C:\Office\WPWIN\WPDOCS (Copy this data to C:\My Documents)

Due to the short time frame for Banner support, we are concentrating on computers that are used to access the Banner system (not Webstar). Generally, this is Administrative and Division Office Staff. If you have faculty members that use Banner (not Webstar), please have their names available to the upgrade team when they are in your area. This way all Banner users will have Banner access after October 7th.

Thank You,

Paul Hamblin

BRIEFLY

As part of the 9/11 remembrance ceremony, Campus Children's Center students released balloons with cards attached. The first has been returned via U.S. Mail — from Stater Bros' main office in Colton.
